TESTIMONIAL.

Many military bases have contaminated water supplies.

Also, many communities near military bases have contaminated water supplies, so over the years, potentially millions of people have been exposed to PFAS/PFOAs.

Many bases have been closed, but very few have been cleaned up. So people will keep getting exposed even though AFFF use is much less and is slowly being replaced.

The government, the military, and the VA have been very slow to acknowledge the dangers of exposure, but slowly they are changing that. Late and slow but it's a start.

Oregon Air Guard (part-time)

THE DECISION.

We used AFFF* often on practice fires with jet fuel. We serviced vehicles with 5-gallon buckets, and it spilled on our skin and clothes. We even washed fire trucks with it with a diluted amount. We were told it was as safe as dish soap, so we never wore gloves or goggles.

I found out I had a thyroid issue in 2019. I found out AFFF was a carcinogen, and it causes thyroid issues and high cholesterol, and I have both. Around 2021 or 2022, I paid out of pocket for a test.

THE REACTION.

The test I did only tested for 16 components, and the test came out at zero levels.

I want to do the more comprehensive test, but I can't afford to pay for it right now.

THE ACTION.

AFFF is a carcinogen and can affect pretty much every organ in the body.

I applied for VA Disability for thyroid and high cholesterol issues. I was approved for both, but at zero percent, since both issues are controlled by medications.

THE ADVICE.

Do it! Unfortunately, the VA won't do it, so we must pay out of pocket, and not all veterans can afford to pay for it.

Unfortunately, many from my time in the Air Force have had surgeries to remove some or part of their cancerous organs, and some have already passed away.
